

RICHLAND LIBRARY
Report on Philanthropy
July 1, 2013 to June 30, 2014

Give freely.

Richland Library has a strong history of community support, which allows the library to provide a wide variety of resources and services that improve the quality of life for everyone. There are several ways to support your library:

SUPPORT RICHLAND LIBRARY FOUNDATION

Make a great library better. Support the Richland Library Foundation.

Public funding alone is not enough. Richland Library also relies on private support from generous individuals like you. Constant innovation and improvement are at the very core of what has made our library one of the nation's finest. For the past several years, the Richland Library Foundation has focused its fundraising efforts primarily on annual giving to supplement the Richland County tax appropriation. In 2013, the Foundation embarked on a $750,000 major gifts campaign to fund Learning Centers in seven library locations. Each Learning Center will be a hybrid of two existing services that are offered on a more limited basis within the Richland Library system – business and job centers and homework centers.

JOIN RICHLAND LIBRARY FRIENDS

Let your voice be heard. Join the Richland Library Friends.

The Richland Library Friends is a nonprofit organization dedicated to raising support for library programs and spearheading advocacy efforts on behalf of the library. Established in 1975 by the Junior League of Columbia, Inc., the Friends group raises nearly $100,000 a year in book sales and special events including The Literary Vine.

VOLUNTEER

Volunteers give freely at the library! From shelving books to teaching computer classes, the library relies on volunteers of all ages to maximize resources and better serve customers. Last year, 1,148 volunteers contributed more than 22,000 hours, a value of $417,700. Junior, teen and adult volunteers are recognized at special events in April and August each year.

Friends Board 2013 – 2014

"It has been an honor to work alongside this dedicated group of volunteers who demonstrate such a strong commitment to the library and who are personally involved in the organization's varied programs and events. I'm proud to report that The Literary Vine was sold out for the second year in a row, and the Friends' Summer Reading Challenge was a huge success, with more than 17,000 children, teens and adults signing up to participate. It's been a great year!"

Donor Profile | Cynthia Byrd

Columbia resident Cynthia Byrd's life changed forever when her 20-year-old son, Brandon LaVar Byrd, was killed in a car accident. But Byrd says through this tragedy, she and her family have found comfort in raising money for the library, an organization her son and other children have valued. Byrd held several fundraisers and appealed to family and friends in her effort, which successfully raised more than $17,500 for Richland Library in memory of her son. Byrd quickly raised $2,500, which was used to dedicate a tree to Brandon in the Children's Room at Main. Her continued efforts to raise the remaining $15,000 allowed the conference room at Richland Library St. Andrews, the location the Byrd family uses, to be renamed for Brandon.

Donor Profile | Dorothy Smith

“Learn something new” was the motto of longtime Midlands resident, Dorothy Smith, a woman her family describes as someone who was a life-long lover of the three L’s – learning, literacy and libraries.

“She believed in the library and education, and she wanted to contribute in any way she could to advance the community,” said Richard Smith, one of her three sons.

And it was because of Dorothy Smith’s love of libraries and education, that when she passed away in October of 2012 at the age of 82, her family says they weren’t surprised to hear of her continued support of Richland Library.

“She was an avid reader, and libraries were a part of her history, her childhood – her entire life,” said her son Richard.

In December 2012, the Richland Library Foundation received an enormously generous bequest from the estate of Dorothy Smith of nearly $96,000 to help support the mission and service of the library. Her generosity didn’t end there – she also named the Richland Library Friends as the sole beneficiary of an annuity of more than $91,000 - resulting in a total donation of more than $187,000 to support Richland Library.

Smith was a longtime supporter of Richland Library, and through her generous gifts, her legacy of encouraging others to “learn something new” will go on for generations.

“She always encouraged us to get involved, and she set the example. She taught us how to reach out to people, to live life to the fullest and to be open to new adventures,” said Richard Smith.

Donor Profile | Nonie Price

"I love the library because it belongs to everyone—rich, poor, tall, short, old, young, highly educated and not so highly educated. The library welcomes everyone at whatever stage they are in their lives. When I was very young, my sister and I walked to the city bus stop and rode the bus to town on Saturday morning to go to the children's room at the library on Sumter Street. It made me feel so important to be able to do that 'on my own.' What a grown up thing for a little child! The trip to the library was an adventure that my mother felt very comfortable letting her two young children complete independently. How special that made us feel! As my own children grew, we continued the weekly trips to the library. My daughter and I went each week to the Devine Street Branch Library (now Wheatley Branch) after her dance class. She would always show the librarians what she had just learned in dance class. They were such a willing audience. I have continued my association with the library throughout my life. I was employed there for 10 years, volunteered with the Friends of the Library and the Board of Trustees, and am still active with the Richland Library Foundation. I always say 'When my heart leaves home, it goes and lives at the library.'"

"When I moved to Columbia from Boise, Idaho, 10 years ago, one of the first places I went was the library because I knew it would make me feel at home in a foreign place. To this day, Richland Library continues to be an important part of my family's lives. My two children, now 11 and 8, and I rely on the library for books and sometimes movies. When my kids were little, we depended on the nearby Cooper Branch for storytelling hours, puppet shows, and other enrichment activities. Every year, we love to participate in the Richland Library Friends' Summer Reading Challenge and go to the Friends' Book Sales. No matter what branch, we can always count on a Richland Library librarian to help us find new books. My son, for example, was looking for a new series to read last fall, and a librarian's suggestion resulted in him falling in love with and reading an entire series of new books we otherwise would have never known about. All of these ways in which the Richland Library enriches our lives are the reasons why I happily give back each year with a donation. As a lifetime lover of books and an avid reader, I can't imagine not having such an amazing and forward-thinking library system in our city - all reasons why I know it's important to support Richland Library so it can continue to grow, thrive and improve for us."

"As soon as you enter the doors of Richland Library, you feel it. 'IT' is the all-encompassing rush of excitement, peaceful relaxation, curiosity, happiness and wonder – sadness too, I suppose, if that's what you're looking for. The sounds of little feet are a vivid reminder of the magic of youngsters learning to love books and reading – only the beginning of something that has carried us all through life. And, in the same amazing institution so many take for granted, adults are researching their existing careers or gathering the information needed to launch a new business. Many people think of libraries as 'books to be loaned for free.' I invite you to take another look. There is a virtually unending well of resources, videos and downloadable music, from the sounds of 2000 B.C. to 'whatever that stuff is' my children are desperately attempting to convince me is the 'best music ever...' Yes, the web is a great tool/ toy/resource, and, in my mind, Richland Library is ALL the web has to offer TIMES 1,000 – all there for us to see, touch, hear and feel. Maybe, just maybe, Richland Library IS the Internet!!! It wouldn't surprise me. The library certainly is everything else, and more! Live and in living color – with a more-than-gracious staff at our fingertips, should we need assistance of any kind."

Donor Profile | Joseph Walker Jr.

Prior to his death in 2007, Joseph Walker Jr. established the Joseph Walker Jr. Charitable Foundation, which provided support for Richland Library's Walker Local and Family History Center. Previously, a generous gift by Mr. Walker and his siblings allowed the Main Library, which opened in 1993, to feature a special area to showcase local history. In 1999, Mr. Walker made another gift to the Walker Local and Family History Center. His son, Jamie Walker, shares his thoughts on his father's support of the library: "My father valued education, enjoyed reading enormously and was extremely interested in the history of South Carolina, especially Columbia.

He and his siblings felt there needed to be a repository of local history and recognized that Richland Library would actively pursue a collection and make it available to the public. There are many aspects of Dad's life that I would want remembered, but most of all, he was a kind man who cared deeply about his family and understood the value of passing on the wisdom gained from his 95 years to younger generations."
